Asian Women's Shelter

The mission of the Asian Women's Shelter (AWS) is to eliminate domestic violence by promoting the social, economic, and political self-determination of women. AWS is committed to every person's right to live in a violence-free home. It specifically addresses the cultural and language needs of immigrant, refugee, and U.S.-born Asian women and their children. AWS's perspective is reflected in the agency's broad strategy, which integrates culturally knowledgeable and language-accessible shelter services, educational programs, and community-based initiatives and advocacy.

Cameo House

In partnership with the San Francisco Adult Probation Department, the Center on Juvenile and Criminal Justice's Cameo House serves criminally involved pregnant and parenting women, who are certified as homeless (as defined by the City and County of San Francisco). The goal of Cameo House is to identify eligible women who are awaiting adjudication and recommend to the courts that they be sentenced to Cameo House in lieu of state prison or county jail, when appropriate. All women residing at Cameo House must have at least one child in their custody, have active reunification services with at least one of their children, or be pregnant at the time of enrollment. Cameo House is a 12-month program but clients can remain for up to two years. All residents must be willing to participate in case management and other clinical services as a condition of the residency. During their stay at Cameo House, women are expected to obtain employment, reunify with at least one of their children, remain clean and sober (verified through random UAs conducted at Cameo House at least once per month), satisfy their Probation requirements, and obtain steady employment, with the goal being for them to obtain and sustain permanent housing. Cameo House residents work intensively with our on-site Case Manager and Therapist to insure that all these objectives are met.

Transgender Women Residential Services (TRNS) Project; A Program of Walden House

The Transgender Recovery Program is a safe, specialized treatment environment for trans individuals with substance use disorders. The program provides trans-specific interventions in a trauma-informed treatment environment, with dedicated, self-identifying trans* program staff, supported by other clinicians who are well trained in issues relevant to the tran* community. Groups, activities, and other services foster a sense of community, belonging, and validation for this population which faces marginalization, victimization, and dehumanizing experiences.

Services address addiction, trauma, and related issues, increase skills, manage stressors, develop meaningful links to needed services and ultimately build a foundation for lasting recovery. Case management strategies link participants internally to the Lyon-Martin Health Services clinic (which provides specialized trans* primary care), and to HIV testing and counseling. Externally, linkages are made to other key providers including: legal advocacy, job and housing support, and other social supports. Therapists provide individual, group, and family sessions for participants who have coexisting mental health needs.

Progress Foundation

This reform effort sought to move people from state psychiatric hospitals back into the community. However, local treatment systems were ill-equipped to support individuals with mental illness. For the next three decades, Progress Foundation developed supportive, community-based programs to support these clients—and keep them from returning to institutions or correctional facilities. We do not turn away any category of client, and do work with those with multiple challenges, including alcohol and substance abuse, major health problems, and criminal-justice histories.

Fair Chance Ordinance San Francisco Employment/Housing Policy

On August 13, 2014, San Francisco's Fair Chance Ordinance went into effect. The Ordinance requires some housing providers and employers to review an individual's qualifications before inquiring about their arrest and conviction record. This ordinance applies to employers with 20 or more employees, contractors with city contracts over $5,000, and housing providers that have received funding from the City. The San Francisco Human Rights Commission enforces the Fair Chance Ordinance, which regulates how conviction history can be used in some employment and housing decisions.

Reentry Ministries

Saved by Grace is a faith-based structured program dealing with all of life's issues. Our focus is to rebuild self-esteem and help individuals readjust into society as productive citizens. We take a faith-based approach toward recovery and education. We mirror our beliefs in our actions. We teach faith but it is not a requirement for entrance. We focus on teaching a positive outlook toward rebuilding families torn by crime, drugs, and abuse to others as well as self. Our mission is to educate, rehabilitate, graduate, and restore the youth and adults back into the life they were meant to live.

Asian American Recovery Services

Asian American Recovery Service's (AARS) goal is to change an individual's substance-abusing lifestyle. This change comes about through four fundamental processes-acknowledgement, willingness to change, reconciliation and life skills. The AARS-residential is a therapeutic community which recognizes the need for providing structure, support and opportunity within a multi-cultural environment. It is a highly structured environment with defined boundaries, both moral and ethical. The program employs community imposed sanctions as well as earned advancement of status and privileges as part of the recovery and growth process. Being part of something greater than oneself is an especially important factor in facilitating positive growth.

Mission Neighborhood Resource Center

Founded in 2002 as a community response to the neighborhood's growing homeless population, the Mission Neighborhood Resource Center (MNRC) advocates for housing and resources to enhance the physical, social, emotional and economic health of homeless residents in the 16th street corridor and surrounding Mission neighborhood. MNRC employs a service model based on harm-reduction principles and practices that focus on community building, basic human needs, and integrated health services for a diverse population as they move toward greater stability and well being. MNRC offers services that are bilingual, free of charge and available on a drop-in basis

Cameo House

In partnership with the San Francisco Adult Probation Department, the Center on Juvenile and Criminal Justice's Cameo House serves criminally involved pregnant and parenting women, who are certified as homeless (as defined by the City and County of San Francisco). The goal of Cameo House is to identify eligible women who are awaiting adjudication and recommend to the courts that they be sentenced to Cameo House in lieu of state prison or county jail, when appropriate. All women residing at Cameo House must have at least one child in their custody, have active reunification services with at least one of their children, or be pregnant at the time of enrollment. Cameo House is a 12-month program but clients can remain for up to two years. All residents must be willing to participate in case management and other clinical services as a condition of the residency. During their stay at Cameo House, women are expected to obtain employment, reunify with at least one of their children, remain clean and sober (verified through random UAs conducted at Cameo House at least once per month), satisfy their Probation requirements, and obtain steady employment, with the goal being for them to obtain and sustain permanent housing. Cameo House residents work intensively with our on-site Case Manager and Therapist to insure that all these objectives are met.

Phatt Chance Community Services

Phatt Chance Community Services (PCCS) is a nonprofit organization that provides safe, clean, and sober housing and reintegration services to individuals in the Bay Area. PCCS's clients include (and our doors are open to) formerly incarcerated men, veterans, and those with mental health diagnoses without alternative housing or support. PCCS's goal is to support successful community reintegration and to prevent recidivism, substance abuse relapse, and homelessness. With the option of both short- and long-term housing, our reintegration model provides maximum accountability paired with maximum flexibility. Program participants are supported and encouraged to pursue employment, continued education, and any additional off-site activities necessary or helpful to them as they heal and grow, restore their lives and families, and become engaged stakeholders in their communities.

Survivor Restoration Program (SRP)

SRP provides advocacy and support services for survivors of domestic and random violence whose perpetrators are participating in SFSD custody and community offender programs. SRP case managers assist survivors and coordinate referrals for safety planning and crisis interventions. SRP provides referrals and works in collaboration with appropriate agencies such as the DA's victim services, hospitals, housing, shelters, welfare offices, immigration, legal, employment, and financial institutions along with community based organizations as needed. Survivors are supported while navigating through family, criminal, civil appearances and other criminal justice and city agencies. SRP's goals are to empower and transition clients to our Survivor Empowerment Program.

SRP advocates are committed through training's/presentations and the Survivor Impact program to raise awareness in our communities of the many challenges that survivors face and to increase sensitivity. SRP also raises awareness on the importance of Restorative Justice Programs that hold offenders accountable, repair the harm caused, survivor restoration, empowerment, and community involvement for both.

Arts In Corrections

Arts In Corrections (AIC) is a program that allows inmates to create self-awareness through visual, literary, media, performing, and folk and traditional art opportunities. AIC is a partnership between the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) and the California Arts Council, designed to prepare inmates success upon release, enhance rehabilitative goals, and improve the safety and environment of CDCR institutions. AIC programs are led by professional artists and specialized organizations, focusing on topics used for strengthening rehabilitation. The goal of AIC is to expose inmates to classes where they can express themselves therapeutically through drawing, creative writing, dance, poetry, theater, and other artistic methods.

Adult Education

Adult education courses consist of classroom-based and blended independent study classes designed for inmate-students of all grade levels. This includes Adult Basic Education (ABE) and Adult Secondary Education (ASE) programs. ABE covers basic non-readers and English language learners with below a 7th grade reading level. Subjects include English language arts and mathematics. Teachers provide inmate-students interactive instruction that follows the state and federal College and Career Readiness Standards. The goal is for inmate-students to increase literacy and progress to an ASE to earn a high school diploma or high school equivalency by taking the General Education Development (GED) test. ASE aims to enable inmate-students to earn a high school diploma or high school equivalency. This will allow inmate-students to continue their post-secondary education and be prepared for entry level employment. Assignments to adult education are open entry and open exit and consist of research based instructional practices, explicit direct instruction, and differentiation to individualize learning.

Continuing Education

Continuing education offers high interest general education courses through personal enrichment, development, and post-secondary learning activities. The Office of Correctional Education provides two types of continuing education: E-Learning and Lifelong Learning. E-Learning is a formalized teaching and learning system specifically designed to be carried out remotely through the use of electronic communication. It is also referred to as distance learning or digital learning. E-Learning is not constrained by geographic considerations; it offers opportunities in situations where traditional classroom education is difficult. Inmate-students with scheduling problems can benefit because E-Learning allows for more flexibility and can be delivered virtually anywhere. Lifelong Learning courses are designed for inmate-students who are 62 years of age and older. Lifelong Learning courses provide opportunities for older inmate-students to foster the continuous development and improvement of knowledge and skills in areas of interest and personal fulfillment. Participation in educational endeavors by the older inmate-student is generally not for credit or formal recognition, but primarily for immediate application, personal satisfaction, and socialization. Lifelong Learning courses help inmate-students stay physically and mentally active through exercise, good nutritional awareness, and critical thinking through social interactions.

Post-Secondary Education

Post-secondary education courses include college-level coursework offered to inmate-students through the Voluntary Education Program. The Division of Rehabilitative Program's Office of Correctional Education, in collaboration with various community colleges and a partnership with the California Community College Chancellor's Office, offers inmate-students opportunities to enroll in college courses that are nationally or regionally accredited in accordance with the United States Department of Education. Courses may be available via face-to-face instruction or correspondence coursework from accredited agencies. Currently, various community colleges provide face-to-face college courses in 34 institutions. These college courses are non-remedial and lead to a degree in accordance with the Memorandum of Understanding established between the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) and the California Community College serving in that geographical location. During spring and fall semesters, the number of inmate-students enrolled in face-to-face college programs can reach or exceed 4,500 students on average. College courses are also provided to inmate-students via correspondence program by 25+ different colleges. Throughout the year, over 7,000 inmate-students on average are enrolled in a correspondence college program. Inmate-students are responsible for tuition, fees, textbooks, and materials associated with college course enrollment. Inmate-students may be eligible for a tuition fee waiver through the California College Promise Grant that covers tuition for every low-income student in the state's community colleges, including those who are incarcerated.

Student Support Services

Student Support Services is dedicated to developing policies that support quality academic services, accommodations, and modifications for inmate-students with developmental, physical, or cognitive disabilities and for those with a high risk of academic failure. These services are designed to strengthen student self-efficacy, resilience, and sense of belonging during the journey toward college and career readiness, High School Equivalency, High School Diplomas, career/industry certifications, and college degrees.

The Every Student Succeeds Act program provides support for youthful inmate-students under the age of 22. The program seeks to ensure that all youthful inmate-students have a fair and equal opportunity to obtain a high-quality education and reach, at a minimum, proficiency in high school content standards and assessments. The program intends to meet the educational needs of low-achieving, and high-risk students enrolled in school by providing supplemental academic support from credentialed teachers.

Physical Education and Recreation is provided at each institution to inmate-students with an opportunity to participate in organized fitness and recreational activities such as basketball, track, handball, and board games. Physical education programs are based on the acquisition of knowledge and skills that are the foundation for engaging in physical activity. The program is geared to empower inmate-students to sustain regular, lifelong physical activity to live a healthy, productive, and fulfilling life.

Cognitive Behavioral Intervention

Cognitive Behavioral Intervention (CBI) is an evidence-based treatment that teaches inmates how to identify and change destructive thought patterns, which have a negative influence on behavior. CBI curriculum focuses on a goal-oriented treatment that takes a hands-on, practical approach to problem solving that transforms thinking patterns and behaviors. CBI modalities are offered in the following areas:

- Substance Use Disorder Treatment
- Anger Management
- Criminal Thinking
- Family Relationships

Long-Term Offender Program

The Long-Term Offender Program (LTOP) is a voluntary program that provides evidenced-based programming to inmates who are subject to the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) parole suitability process. The goal of the LTOP is to provide Cognitive Behavioral Treatment to address criminogenic needs and risk, thereby reducing the likelihood of reoffending. Services are provided in both individual and group settings to address the following major criminogenic areas:

- Anger Management
- Criminal Thinking
- Denial Management
- Family Relationships
- Substance Use Disorder Treatment
- Victim Impact

Transitions Program

The Transitions Program offers participants employability and money management skills to prepare for successful reentry into their communities. The Transitions Program consist of a series of 18 modules which includes Another Chance, A Better Choice and Money Matters curriculum. Another Chance, A Better Choice curriculum is designed to teach job readiness, job search skills, and prerequisite skills needed for today's competitive job market, which was developed by the Sacramento Employment and Training Agency. It includes practical and strategic information, hands on activities, individual and team oriented exercises, role-playing, and motivational information for encouragement. Money Matters curriculum helps individuals build financial knowledge, develop financial confidence, become more money-savvy, and use banking services effectively. It consists of 11 modules developed by The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC). The Department recognizes that poor financial decisions could result in years of financial burden. By educating more inmate-students about credit and banking services, they are more likely to make informed decisions on money matters, save money, and improve their financial and credit histories. Each civil service transition teacher also supplies supplementary reentry information to their class participants, which would include the use of Automated Rehabilitative Catalog And Information Discovery System (ARCAID) and other reentry related items. The Transitions Program partners with the Division of Adult Parole Operations' Community Transition Program to connect inmate-students with America's Job Centers of California and other relevant social service agencies in their counties of residence.

The Last Mile

The Last Mile (TLM) believes the jobs are the key to breaking the cycle of incarceration through Education, Vocational Training and Workforce Reentry. TLM's approach is based on the premise that re-entry transitioning must begin during incarceration and continue post-release with the end result of gainful employment. The programs are designed so that participants develop highly marketable personal and professional skills that are relevant and competitive in today's business environment. The core curriculum includes HTML/CSS and JavaScript, WordPress, Node, AngularJS, React, and D3.js. TLM Works is an innovative workforce development program created to provide graduates of our coding program the chance to gain real-life work experience and have a portfolio of work before they enter the tech job market post-release. TLM Works is the first-ever web development shop operating inside a US prison. Men and women who participate work on client-funded projects such as including website development and applications, giving them a chance to demonstrate the skills they've learned and create a referenceable portfolio of work.

Asian Law Caucus

The mission of the Asian Law Caucus is to promote, advance, and represent the legal and civil rights of Asian and Pacific Islander (API) communities. Recognizing that social, economic, political and racial inequalities continue to exist in the United States, the Asian Law Caucus is committed to the pursuit of equality and justice for all sectors of our society, with a specific focus directed toward addressing the needs of low-income, immigrant and underserved APIs. Since the vast majority of Asians and Pacific Islanders in America are immigrants and refugees, the Caucus strives to create informed and educated communities empowered to assert their rights and to participate actively in American society. This perspective is reflected in our broad strategy which integrates the provision of legal services, educational programs, community organizing initiatives and advocacy.

Legal Services

The Tenderloin Housing Clinic law office represents low-income tenants in San Francisco in most aspects of landlord-tenant and housing law. THC law clients are typically seniors, individuals with disabilities and minority and immigrant families. THC attorneys represent tenants in Ellis Act evictions, Own/Relative Move-In Evictions, affirmative lawsuits for habitability, harassment and wrongful eviction, and to address illegal conversion of residential hotels and apartments to tourist rentals. THC's attorneys are some of the most experienced and well-respected attorneys in San Francisco, with decades of experience representing low-income tenants. The law office also provides limited free legal counseling to tenants.

Community Arts Program (CAP)

Hospitality House's Community Arts Program (CAP) is the only free-of-charge fine arts studio and gallery space for artists and neighborhood residents whose socioeconomic struggles would otherwise prevent them from accessing the powerful artistic and cultural landscape of this community. Each year, more than 3,500 artists benefit from the free materials and space to create, house, exhibit and sell their artwork. The CAP hosts regular exhibitions at its on-site gallery, located at 1009 Market Street at 6th Street, as well as at other locations around San Francisco. Participating artists keep 100% of the proceeds from any work purchased at one of our exhibitions. Call or visit the hospitality website to view the workshop and exhibit calendar.

Community Building Program (CBP)

Hospitality House's Community Building Program (CBP) fosters collaboration, belonging, self-worth and resilience within our participants and our communities. We do this by supporting a social justice perspective to community action that promotes leadership development, advocacy, volunteerism, and personal resilience. Last year, 235 community members participated in six CBP-sponsored community events that advocated for important issues, strengthened community collaboration, and activated neighborhood residents.

Through the program's Healing, Organizing, and Leadership Development (HOLD) Internship project, participants build their leadership skills by developing and leading neighborhood events that address community concerns. CBP's Volunteer Project develops opportunities that connect participants to activities within our programs and the greater community that build their professional skills and enhance their connection to the community. CBP Housing Case Managers specialize in supporting recently-housed individuals in maintaining stable permanent housing. The program also works closely with Hospitality House's community partners and others on broader advocacy and public policy issues to give neighborhood residents a voice in the process.

Culture Based Transformative Coaching (CBTC)

Village Connect's CBTC's mission is to build the capacity of people to become more self-aware and self-directed resulting in sustainable positive transformation. Our philosophy of change is steeped in a culturally competent approach that is client-centered and sensitive to the gender-specific and inter-generational dynamics critical to the individual and group. CBTC is a strength-based coaching model that maximizes personal, professional, and academic potential. Coaches/Facilitators trained in the CBTC model support clients to meet life's opportunities and challenges by providing insights and guidance from an inside/out perspective rather than outside/in. Utilizing a culturally proficient curriculum and community-based interdisciplinary approach, Village Connect effectively transforms the individual, family, and community.

Health and Social Services

The vision of Swords to Plowshares is that all veterans will have access to the care and services they need and deserve to rebuild their lives. War causes wounds and suffering that last beyond the battlefield. Swords to Plowshares' mission is to heal the wounds, to restore dignity, hope and self-sufficiency to all veterans in need, and to significantly reduce homelessness and poverty among veterans. Founded in 1974, Swords to Plowshares is a community-based not-for-profit organization that provides counseling and case management, employment and training, housing, and legal assistance to veterans in the San Francisco Bay Area. We promote and protect the rights of veterans through advocacy, public education and partnerships with local, state and national entities.

Reach Inside for Success & Excellence (RISE) Reentry Program

RISE is a reentry program that provides support groups and case management with a focus on restorative reentry. RISE serves men aged 18-25 who are incarcerated, recently released, and/or mandated to programming. The program uses the cognitive-based Living Is For Everyone (LIFE) violence reduction curriculum. Facilitators, many of whom are individuals with lived experience of incarceration, help young men explore the types of thinking that triggers violent behavior and begin to identify the risk factors associated with violence. This curriculum is based on the framework of Alive & Free Prescription to End Violence™.

Reentry Ministries

Saved by Grace is a faith-based structured program dealing with all of life's issues. Our focus is to rebuild self-esteem and help individuals readjust into society as productive citizens. We take a faith-based approach toward recovery and education. We mirror our beliefs in our actions. We teach faith but it is not a requirement for entrance. We focus on teaching a positive outlook toward rebuilding families torn by crime, drugs, and abuse to others as well as self. Our mission is to educate, rehabilitate, graduate, and restore the youth and adults back into the life they were meant to live.

Sixth Street Self-Help Center

The Sixth Street Self-Help Center offers services for residents living along San Francisco's Sixth Street Corridor. The community center, located at 169 Sixth Street (between Mission and Howard), is a place where people can safely tend to their primary needs: escaping the cold, resting free of traffic, noise, or harassment, or just using the restroom. Beyond that, it is a meeting ground where neighborhood residents struggling with homelessness and poverty can access services, connect with their community, and work to stabilize their lives.

The Self-Help Center's Case Management team provides individualized counseling and care planning for those who are in need of longer-term services. This includes assistance with processes necessary to secure benefits, such as General Assistance, Social Security Income, State Disability and Veteran's Benefits; emergency, transitional, and permanent housing; substance use counseling and access to treatment programs. Each year, more than 6,000 people access the Self-Help Center's peer-based support groups, providing them an avenue for stability and connection to the community. Importantly, these groups facilitate transitions to employment and/or permanent housing. These weekly support groups apply a harm reduction approach that allows people to access services during periods of active substance use.

In addition, the Sixth Street Self-Help Center's Employment Resource Center provides vocational resources for job-seekers. Staff and volunteers work with individuals to address whatever is standing between them and stable employment. Like its Tenderloin counterpart, the drop-in center also partners with the Harm Reduction Therapy Center to offer drop-in mental health and substance use counseling on-site daily, as well as free massage and healing touch through our partnership with the Care Through Touch Institute.

County Adult Assistance Programs (CAAP)

The County Adult Assistance Programs (CAAP) provide cash assistance and employment services to low-income San Franciscans with no dependent children, including those who cannot work and immigrants/refugees. The program issues monthly benefits (on the first of the month) on an Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card that can be used at various stores like a bank card and funds can be withdrawn in the form of cash at various surcharge-free ATM machines throughout San Francisco. A person on parole in another county may be eligible for CAAP when the county of responsibility allows the client to live in San Francisco and the client intends to live in San Francisco. A person on probation in another county may be eligible for CAAP only if the client is allowed to reside in San Francisco by his Probation Officer. Note, you may be eligible to receive benefits while working and/or attending vocational training, or classes for GED/ESL/High School Diploma.

Occupational Therapy Training Program-San Francisco

OTTP provides youth programming at Buena Vista Horace Mann, Everett, and Visitacion Valley Middle Schools. OTTP's holistic, trauma informed, strength-based approach embodies the principles of youth development and is embedded into the school day. Career Awareness is conducted as a weekly group with six distinct cohorts (two groups of non-duplicated youth weekly at each school) of 8th graders. We support the development of youths' knowledge and skills in the educational environment by building competencies in social and interpersonal skills, cognitive skills, emotional coping skills and critical soft skills essential for success at work. Youth are introduced to the world of work through participatory activities to build awareness of career interests and vocational skills, project-based career exploration activities, and guest speakers from a variety of fields. Through engagement in our curriculum, youth acquire soft skills including communicating assertively, teamwork, making decisions based on self-knowledge, and following through on commitments. They also manage time, organize themselves, and learn to utilize community resources. Upon completion, youth share their personal portfolio of self-discoveries related to career interests, strengths, values and personality. This portfolio presentation supports the youth in building their strengths-based personal narrative that reinforces positive, pro-social beliefs about their self and celebrates their vocational interests and goals.

Stepping into Sisterhood

Within 72 hours of a referral to any of YWFC's Stepping into Sisterhood Programs (SIS), a program participant will be connected with. YWFC operates space designed specifically for this population where young women can feel safe and access food, services, educational programming (including access to high school through our site based 5 Keys Charter School), college counseling, food, and childcare if needed. SIS programs are 12-15 weeks, incentive based, and designed to meet the specific complex needs of young women within population. Young Mothers United is designed for pregnant and parenting young moms navigating the system. Freedom Circles (formerly Sisters Circles) are designed to support young women through the reentry process and in developing peer based supports while promoting healing, pro-social behaviors, and self-determination - all key ingredients for success. Beyond Survival is specifically geared towards young women who, in addition to system involvement, have experienced trafficking, been involved in sex work, and or participated in the illegal street economy. Young women in SIS have access to a multitude of services and support at the center and through partner agencies including; healing modalities (yoga, writing, therapy) opportunities for civic engagement as they reduce system involvement and become more stable, and opportunities for longer term internships and employment with YWFC.

The Beat Within Juvenile Justice Center Workshops

The Beat Within (TBW) provides incarcerated youth in San Francisco juvenile hall with weekly creative and literary arts programming, TBW enables youth to develop pro-social skills including positive self-esteem building, positive social interactions and positive relationship building with TBW volunteers. The Beat Within's mission is to provide incarcerated youth with consistent opportunities to share their ideas and life experiences in a safe space that encourages literacy, self-expression, some critical thinking skills and healthy, supportive relationships with adults and their community. Outside of the juvenile justice system, The Beat Within partners with community organizations and individuals to bring resources to youth both inside and outside of detention. We are committed to being an effective bridge between youth who are locked up and the community that aims to support their progress towards a healthy, non-violent and productive life.

UCSF ZSFG Gender-Responsive Care for Justice-Involved Girls and Young Women

The UCSF/ZSFG Infant Child & Adolescent Psychiatry's (ICAP) mental health programs (Infant Parent Program, IPP; Child & Adolescent Services, CAS) have 30 yrs of trauma-informed, culturally sensitive, empirically supported mental health services for children, youth and families with Medi-Cal insurance. Dr. Marina Tolou-Shams, ICAP Director, has 10+ yrs of gender-responsive clinical and research expertise with justice-involved girls. The UCSF ICAP Juvenile Justice Behavioral Health (JJBH) team partners with 1) Center for Gender and Justice to deliver and evaluate VOICES, a gender-responsive trauma-informed group intervention for justice-involved girls ages 12-24 to foster healthy connections and increase self-esteem/self-efficacy and 2) the Art of Yoga Project (AYP), a Bay Area non-profit with 10+ yrs centered on promoting self-awareness, self-respect and self-regulation to 6,000+ at-risk, incarcerated and exploited girls in the Bay Area by using a gender-responsive, holistic, evidence-based approach of yoga and creative arts. All gender-responsive services utilize 1) a trauma-informed approach, as the "typical" girl has higher rates of trauma, abuse and neglect than her male peers; 2) relational theory, as complex trauma often involves disrupted caregiver attachments and difficulty forming healthy connections and 3) creation of positive relationships for healing and well-being.

ICAP's case management and mental health services include: 1) centralized referral and triage; 2) intake assessment; 3) treatment plan development; 4) individual, dyadic, group and/or family intervention; 5) psychometric testing/evaluation; 6) collateral; 7) case management; 7) peer support; 8) psychiatric assessment and med. support services; 9) crisis intervention; 10) outreach/consultation services. Referred justice-involved girls will have access to all services onsite at ZSFG, within their homes and/or other community locations. ICAP is comprised of dedicated, multidisciplinary and multicultural UCSF clinicians, case managers and support staff. ICAP JJBH staff have extensive training and experience working with justice-involved girls in their homes and communities and in meeting girls "where they are." Services are available from early morning to evenings to accommodate girls and families. VOICES is an 18 session group of 6-8 girls each, held weekly (90 mins) and runs concurrently based on referrals. AYP will provide two (1-hr) classes per week to referred girls. Classes include instruction by specially trained yoga and art educators in character development, health education, yoga practice, meditation, breathing, self-regulation, and creative expression, designed to teach girls pro-social skills, emotional regulation, and healthy alternatives to self-destructive behavior.

Youth Justice Services

The Youth Justice Services program provides individualized care management serves at three HPF youth program sites (Bayview Safe Haven, Oakdale, and Peacekeepers). Services are culturally based and designed to redirect youth from involvement in gang/turf disputes and/or delinquent behavior. On-site program services are offered Monday-Friday. Programming includes daily academic/tutorial support and evening enrichment activities, weekly leadership and life skills groups and recreational outings. As needed, Case Managers enroll participants in other HPF programs related to workforce development.

San Francisco Conservation Corps

SFCC is an education and training program: a robust academic, job training, work readiness and life skills experience for over 100 very low-income young adults each year. Since 1983, over 5,000 young people have taken the challenge to become Corpsmembers, working 5 million hours on hundreds of landscaping, conservation, recycling and playground renovation projects to enhance the environment and communities of San Francisco. Throughout this work, thousands of Corpsmembers have gained academic, environmental and work skills. Today, SFCC is joined by 13 other local Corps throughout California, through the California Association of Local Conservation Corps. All of these Corps work with young men and women to enhance the environment through recycling, conservation, parkland improvements and more. Corpsmembers also attend academic classes, learn about conservation, and develop job skills through their public service work.
